

Many of the inhabitants were caricatures of actual humans, by choice or by alternative brain chemistry. Berkeley Bob is one such character. Bob's story is that he was a homeless veteran who enjoyed spending nights in the downstairs dining commons talking to himself and smoking non-filter Chesterfield 100s. Bob was a former US Army soldier who had been a member of the MK Ultra experiments in the 1960's when, in an effort to test for possible uses of psychedelic drugs in mind control experiments, he was dosed with LSD and other psycho-tropics numerous times and lost his mind. He spent most of his time arguing with himself loudly in unintelligible garble.
